Different Types of Coffee to Stock in Your Office Pantry

Coffee is the lifeblood of many workplaces, providing the much-needed caffeine boost to get through the day. Whether you're a busy office manager or a discerning employee, choosing the right coffee for your workplace can make all the difference in keeping the team buzzing and productive. Here's a quick guide to the different types of coffee to consider for your office pantry.

Instant Sachets

Pre-portioned and easy to prepare, instant coffee sachets are perfect for busy workplaces where time is limited. Simply add hot water and you're set. They often come in a variety of flavours, from your standard 3-in-1 mix to fancy cappuccinos and sweet mochas. The main advantage is convenience, but the trade-off can be a less robust flavour compared to other options.

Instant Freeze-Dried Coffee

A step up from sachets, instant freeze-dried coffee offers a longer shelf life and a more authentic coffee taste. Made by rapidly freezing and dehydrating brewed coffee, this option preserves much of the aroma and taste of fresh coffee. It's a versatile choice for workplaces that value both speed and quality, offering a more authentic coffee experience without the need for specialised equipment.

Whole Coffee Beans

Grinding just before brewing enhances taste, making whole beans ideal for offices with bean-to-cup machines or grinders. While this coffee requires more effort and equipment, the payoff is unmatched. When choosing office coffee, consider your team's preferences and available equipment. Instant coffee offers convenience, while ground and whole beans provide a premium experience. Offering a variety of coffee options ensures everyone enjoys their preferred brew.

Coffee Capsules

Coffee capsules offer a convenient, mess-free way to enjoy barista-style coffee at workplace. Designed for use with compatible coffee machines, the capsules come in various flavours, strengths, and blends. Brands like L'OR, Espressoitoria®, and Republica® provide diverse options to suit every taste. Ideal for busy professionals, these hassle-free capsules eliminate the need for grinding or measuring; just pop one in and enjoy great coffee in seconds.

Why Ethical Sourcing Matters in Today's Workplace

Have you ever considered where the coffee you drink or the food you consume each day comes from? More people are asking these questions and seeking greater transparency about how products are sourced, from farm to shelf, and whether that journey is ethical and sustainable.

Businesses have recognised this shift. As a result, many brands now highlight their "sustainable", "environmentally friendly" or "Fairtrade" credentials to reassure customers that the products they purchase have been sourced responsibly.

In recent years, demand for greater transparency around ethical sourcing has increased significantly, as consumers become more conscious of the role their purchasing decisions play in shaping a sustainable future. This shift has driven the rise of certifications such as B Corp, which assess and verify a company's social and environmental performance.

According to the OpenText research, almost two-thirds

87% of Australians prefer ethically and sustainably produced products.

73% of Australians would be willing to buy more Australian-made products to avoid reliance on imports

I want more Australian-made products.

The ACRS Retail Monitor report reveals that consumers aged 18-34 are more willing to pay for ethically-produced products and those packaged in recycled materials.

According to the OpenText survey, over

81% of Australian consumers would trade convenience, like slower delivery, for ethically sourced products.

40% of shoppers are willing to pay more for recyclable packaging, 38% for recycled-material products.

Benefits of Ethical Sourcing

While the case for ethical sourcing is becoming clearer, some businesses still perceive it as costly or complex to implement. Having embedded ethical sourcing into our own operations, we have seen the tangible benefits it delivers.

- Brand loyalty

Customers are more likely to trust and support businesses that demonstrate responsible sourcing practices. Ethical sourcing enhances brand reputation and builds long-term loyalty.

- Waste reduction

Sustainable sourcing practices minimise waste, conserve water and protect natural resources. More efficient use of materials also supports cost control and operational improvement.

- Stronger Partnerships

An ethical sourcing strategy fosters transparency and collaboration across the supply chain. Understanding where products come from helps businesses avoid exploitative practices and build meaningful partnerships with suppliers and communities. More efficient use of materials also supports cost control and operational improvement.

- Long-term cost savings

Sustainable practices often result in energy-efficient products, reduced waste and improved durability. Over time, this can lower operational costs and reduce the need for resource-intensive processes.

- Responsible sourcing

Ethical sourcing prioritises fair labour practices, safe working conditions and environmentally responsible production, regardless of location. It ensures suppliers meet clear standards across global supply chains.

- Environmental sustainability

Ethical sourcing supports environmental protection by prioritising responsible manufacturing practices, reducing waste, and minimising harm across the supply chain. It also encourages smarter resource use, lower emissions, and greater transparency from raw materials to final delivery.

- Business performance

Protecting workers' rights and providing safe working conditions can reduce injury and absenteeism rates. Research shows that organisations with strong sustainability practices often achieve stronger operational performance and long-term resilience.

- Regulatory compliance

Operating responsibly and sourcing ethically helps businesses meet legal and regulatory requirements. Failing to comply can result in sanctions, fines and reputational damage.

B Corp Certification

Becoming B Corp certified shows that a business is serious about balancing profit with purpose. This globally recognised certification ensures a company meets high social, environmental, and ethical standards while committing to ongoing improvement. It also provides a trusted framework for ethical sourcing, transparency, and accountability, demonstrating a genuine commitment to making a positive impact while maintaining financial success.

The Health Benefits of Drinking Tea

Tea remains a staple in Australian workplaces, valued for its flavour, versatility and natural health benefits. The Australian tea market reached AUD $690.04 million in 2025, driven largely by increasing interest in functional, wellness-focused beverages. This reflects a broader trend of consumers choosing drinks rich in antioxidants and supportive of overall wellbeing.

Many traditional teas, including black, green, white and oolong, contain polyphenols that help protect the body from oxidative stress. These antioxidants have been associated with heart health, reduced cholesterol levels and reduced risk of chronic conditions. Black tea contains polyphenols linked to lower blood pressure and improved cardiovascular function.

Green tea stands out for its high concentration of catechins, especially EGCG, which research suggests supports brain function and overall wellbeing. These findings align with Australia's growing shift toward health and wellness-oriented tea products, with rising demand for specialty and functional blends.

Tea provides hydration while offering a gentler caffeine content compared to coffee. The moderate levels of caffeine paired with L-theanine help promote alertness without overstimulation, supporting steady energy throughout the workday. Evidence from a 2025 meta-analysis of controlled trials published in Nutrition Reviews, Volume 83, Issue 10, indicates that theanine combined with caffeine may improve mood, cognitive performance and reaction time.

Herbal teas continue to rise in popularity across Australian offices due to their calming effects and caffeine-free nature. Chamomile tea has been shown to support improved sleep quality and digestive comfort, while peppermint tea may help ease headaches and promote concentration.

Rooibos tea, rich in antioxidants like quercetin and aspalathin, is associated with cardiovascular health support and reduced oxidative stress.

This trend is further supported by Australia's strong market shift toward herbal and specialty teas, driven by demand for products with added functional benefits such as immune support, relaxation and digestive health.

Consumers seeking preventive health benefits are increasingly choosing teas that support wellness goals, including detox blends, immunity infusions and teas with adaptogenic ingredients.

Demand for premium, organic and sustainably sourced teas continues to grow, reflecting a shift toward ethical, high quality beverage options in both homes and workplaces. This aligns tea consumption with broader sustainability values increasingly important to Australian businesses.

Snacking Smart: Keep Your Team Fuelled All Day

In today's fast-paced workplace, maintaining focus and energy throughout the day is essential for productivity. While coffee might be the go-to pick-me-up for many, smart snacking can play an equally vital role in keeping your team energised and focused. Thoughtful snack choices not only curb hunger but also support brain function, sustain energy levels, and even improve mood. Here's how to implement a smart snacking strategy for your team.

What is Smart Snacking?

Snacking isn't just about filling the gaps between meals; it's about fuelling the body with nutrients that sustain energy and enhance cognitive performance. Consuming snacks rich in protein, healthy fats, and complex carbohydrates can help regulate blood sugar levels, preventing the mid-afternoon energy slump. These nutrients also support brain health, aiding concentration and decision-making.

On the other hand, snacks high in refined sugars and empty calories might provide a quick energy boost but often lead to a rapid crash, leaving individuals feeling sluggish and unfocused. Encouraging smart snacking habits among your team can therefore have a direct impact on workplace productivity and morale.

Benefits of Smart Snacking in the Workplace

- 1. Boosts Energy Levels: Snacks rich in complex carbohydrates and healthy fats, such as whole-grain crackers with hummus or a handful of nuts, provide sustained energy throughout the day.
- 2. Enhances Focus: Foods like berries, dark chocolate, and green tea are known for their cognitive benefits, helping improve memory and focus.

- 3. Promotes Better Mood: Healthy snacks can stabilise blood sugar levels, reducing irritability and mood swings.
- 4. Encourages Collaboration: A well-stocked snack station can serve as a social hub, fostering interaction and camaraderie among team members.

Choosing the Right Snacks

Not all snacks are created equal. To promote smart snacking, it's essential to provide a variety of healthy, appealing options. Here are some snack categories to consider:

1. Protein-Packed Options

Protein is crucial for repairing tissues and sustaining energy levels.

Examples include:

- Greek yogurt with granola
- Hard-boiled eggs
- Nut butter packs with apple slices
- Jerky made from lean meats or plant-based alternatives

2. Complex Carbohydrates

These slow-digesting carbs provide long-lasting energy:

- Whole-grain crackers
- Air-popped popcorn
- Oatmeal cups
- Roasted chickpeas

3. Healthy Fats

Fats are essential for brain health and satiety:

- Avocado slices or guacamole with veggie sticks
- Mixed nuts and seeds
- Low sugar trail mix
- Dark chocolate (70% cocoa or higher)

4. Fresh Fruits and Vegetables

Rich in vitamins, minerals, and fibre, these are always a good choice:

- Fresh berries
- Sliced cucumber, bell peppers, or carrots
- Fruit skewers
- Dried fruit without added sugar

5. Hydration Helpers

Don't underestimate the role of hydration in maintaining focus and energy:

- Herbal teas
- Flavoured water with citrus slices
- Coconut water

Creating a Snacking Culture

Introducing a smart snacking culture requires planning and communication.

Here are some tips:

1. Stock a Snack Station

Set up a designated area in the office with a variety of healthy snack options. Ensure that items are clearly labelled and stored in a hygienic manner. Rotating the selection periodically can keep it interesting for employees.

2. Encourage Mindful Eating

Educate your team about the benefits of smart snacking and mindful eating. Posters, workshops, or informational emails can help employees make informed choices about their snacks.

3. Lead by Example

Leadership can set the tone for workplace habits. When managers or team leaders are seen choosing healthy snacks, it can inspire others to do the same.

4. Cater to Diverse Preferences

Consider dietary restrictions and cultural preferences. Offering vegan, gluten-free, and nut-free options ensures that everyone has access to nutritious snacks.

5. Promote Regular Breaks

Encourage employees to take short breaks to refuel and recharge. Combining snacking with brief walks or relaxation activities can improve overall productivity.

Balancing Convenience and Nutrition

While pre-packaged snacks offer convenience, it's important to prioritise nutrition. You should choose minimally processed snack options with simple ingredient lists. For example, choose unsalted nuts over flavoured ones or plain popcorn instead of buttered varieties. Providing reusable utensils and eco-friendly packaging can also align with sustainability goals.

Snacking and Team Building

Beyond physical sustenance, snacks can foster a sense of community. Hosting occasional "snack and chat" sessions where employees can share their favourite healthy recipes or snack ideas can encourage bonding. Celebrating milestones with a mix of healthy and indulgent treats can also create a balanced, inclusive atmosphere.

Measuring the Impact

The success of a smart snacking initiative can be gauged through employee feedback and observable changes in energy levels, focus, and morale. Conducting periodic surveys can help fine-tune the selection and identify new preferences.

Smart snacking is a simple yet effective strategy to keep your team energised, focused, and motivated throughout the workday. By offering a variety of healthy and appealing options, fostering a culture of mindful eating, and promoting the social benefits of snacking, workplaces can create an environment where employees thrive. Investing in your team's well-being through thoughtful snack choices is not just good for morale but also a boost to overall productivity and success.

5 Benefits of Having a Well-Stocked Office Kitchen

The office kitchen or break room is the heart of any workplace; it's where staff go to take a break from the grind, catch-up, hydrate, and have their meals. According to a 2023 YouGov study of 1,000 full-time employed Australians (aged 18-65), 77% of respondents either skipped or worked through their full designated lunch breaks during their work week.

Health and productivity experts believe this can have a big impact on the overall health and wellbeing of many Australians a sentiment echoed by the study, with 72% of study participants indicating they feel less productive when they don't take their lunch break.

Skipping lunch can cause fatigue, drowsiness, a shorter attention span, and a slower rate of information processing. Having a well-kept, appealing, and stocked kitchen can encourage employees to take breaks on time to refuel their bodies and refresh their minds to be more productive.

The Australian Institute of Business has formally recognised the value of employee motivation in raising morale and increasing productivity. It emphasised the importance of leaders recognising, appreciating, and rewarding their employees, and what better way to do this than by stocking your office kitchen with a variety of beverages and nutritious snacks for your team?

Here's how a well-stocked office kitchen can improve your employee's overall wellbeing and productivity.

1 Increased Job Satisfaction

Workplace culture and additional 'perks' are more likely to be the factors that influence employees' happiness. Having a well-stocked office kitchen shows that the company is willing to go above and beyond in providing benefits to make employees feel valued and cared for, and access to healthy snacks and treats at work may even increase overall job satisfaction.

2 Easy Access to Supplies

Having employees that come in and out of the office regularly can be quite disruptive for your business. A well-stocked kitchen can encourage staff to stay in the workplace rather than going out to grab a coffee, tea, or snack.

"Free snacks and meals promote a more collaborative and fun environment."

The 2020 Roy Morgan Single Source survey, conducted by in-depth face-to-face interviews with over 1,000 Australians, revealed that around 90% of adults snack during the day, with over one quarter of respondents classified as "heavy snackers".

Stocking your office kitchen with healthy, energy-dense foods can not only ensure that your employees have their snacking needs catered too but can help them avoid unhealthy snacks packed with sugar, fat and salt.

3 Improved Productivity

We all know how crucial it is to take micro-breaks away from our workstations. Getting up and moving around reduces muscle aches and pains that can occur from sitting for long periods. A well-stocked kitchen gives employees the option to take a break to grab a snack and regain energy to continue with their daily tasks. By making snacks readily available to your staff, you can help them maintain their productivity while reducing the risk of burnout.

4 Encourage Healthy Habits

When it comes to a midday meal, employees' 9-to-5 grind often causes them to prioritise convenience over nutrition. According to "The health of Australia's workforce", a 2005 Medibank Private survey, Australian employees with poor diets missed up to nine times as many days from work each year as compared to healthier co-workers.

After 3 p.m., some employees may start feeling tired and sluggish, and dehydration is a main cause of the afternoon slump. To counter this, keeping water and nutritional snacks on hand can help to keep employees hydrated, happy, and productive, with absences down. Consider sourcing kitchen supplies from Fairtrade certified firms to help support local businesses and farmers throughout Australia.

5 Additional Hiring Perks

Snacks have been emphasised as a strategy to entice employees to new organisations, with an increase in millennials joining the workforce and a growing 'foodie' culture. Providing free snacks can be a part of a broader initiative to boost a company's health. Furthermore, a well-stocked kitchen with eco-conscious disposable supplies is an important aspect in retaining employees and keeping the workplace environmentally friendly. Many job seekers opt for offices that are eco-conscious.

The Growing Trend of Skipping Lunch

3 out of 4 office workers regularly skip or work through their lunch breaks each week.

42%
say too busy to take a break

43%
eat their lunch at their desk

31%

Impact on Productivity and Wellbeing

4 in 5 office workers (80%) feel positive about taking lunch breaks to recharge during the workday.

47%
office workers feel lunch breaks improve their mental clarity

64%
feel more productive and energised after taking lunch breaks

Supporting Smarter Breaks

On-site microwaves and toasters help employees eat faster, maintain energy, and avoid productivity dips.

42%
of workers struggle to heat meals at work

29%
lack basic meal prep options during the workday

Snacking Culture in the Workplace

Only 1 in 5 employees currently have access to nutritious snacks.

48%
enjoy free snacks/drinks at least four times a week

90%
of employees are happier at work with healthy snacks.

When to Clean the Office Fridge

The office fridge - that magical portal where last week's lunch transforms into this week's science experiment. Fear not, fellow fridge users! Maintaining a clean and organised fridge is easier than you think.

How Often Should You Clean?

The office fridge can quickly become a breeding ground for bacteria, mould, and that mysterious smell no one wants to claim responsibility for. But how often should you give it a good scrub?

The golden rule is to clean your office fridge weekly. This frequency helps prevent the build-up of grime, reduces the risk of food contamination, and keeps those funky odours at bay. The schedule ultimately depends on how heavily the fridge is stocked and the number of users.

Who's on Fridge Duty?

If your office has a cleaning staff and it's within their remit, then everything's good. If not, consider setting up a cleaning rota. Assign different team members or departments to take turns tackling the fridge.

You can also make fridge cleaning a Friday afternoon ritual. It's a great way to wind down the week and avoid the Monday Morning Fridge Horror.

From Chaos to Cool

A fridge crammed with half-open containers and mystery leftovers makes cleaning harder than it needs to be. When everyone can quickly and easily see what's inside, food is more likely to be eaten before it expires, spills are easier to immediately spot, and shared spaces feel more respectful. A little structure goes a long way toward keeping things fresh, functional, and completely fuss-free.

- 1. Labels are lifesavers: Encourage staff to label their food items with names and dates.
- 2. Team territories: Designate specific shelves or areas for different teams or departments - just don't let it turn into a turf war over the last slice of cake.
- 3. Minimise clutter: Implement a "use it or lose it" policy. Any unlabelled or expired items get the boot on cleaning day.

The Great Clean

When it's time for the big clean, a systematic approach makes the task efficient and stress-free. Here's how to give your office fridge a proper clean:

- 1. Empty the fridge: Remove all items, checking for expired food, forgotten leftovers, and questionable containers. Dispose of anything that's clearly past its prime. Remember, when in doubt, throw it out!
- 2. Remove shelves and drawers: Take out shelves, trays, and drawers. Wash them with warm, soapy water and rinse thoroughly. Allow them to air dry.
- 3. Wipe it down: Use multipurpose cleaning products to give all surfaces a thorough clean. Focus on sticky spots and spills, and don't forget to clean the seals around the door.
- 4. Dry and replace: Once everything is spick and span, dry all surfaces and parts before putting them back.
- 5. Restock mindfully: As you return items to the fridge, organise them neatly. It's like playing Tetris, but with fewer flashing lights and more leftovers.

Next time you're faced with the daunting task of office fridge maintenance, just remember you're not just cleaning a fridge, you're cultivating a cooler culture of cleanliness. After all, a well-kept fridge is more than just a storage space. It's a symbol of teamwork, respect, and the collective power of a good label maker. Now, go forth and conquer that fridge! Your taste buds, your colleagues, and your nose will thank you.

Eco-Friendly Cleaning: Kind to Your Fridge and the Planet

When it comes to cleaning products, opt for eco-friendly options. Not only are they better for the environment, but they're also safer for food storage areas. Look for natural, biodegradable cleaners that are tough on grime but gentle on the planet.

Some great eco-friendly options include:

- 1. White vinegar: Nature's all-purpose cleaner, white vinegar is an incredibly versatile option that can tackle grease, grime, and stains with ease. Its natural acidity helps break down tough residues, making it perfect for cleaning kitchen surfaces, glass, and even removing odours from fabrics.
- 2. Baking soda and coffee grounds: These kitchen staples are perfect for absorbing unpleasant odours and scrubbing away tough stains. Baking soda can lift dirt and neutralise smells, while coffee grounds provide an abrasive surface for scrubbing hard-to-remove spots on counters, sinks, and stovetops.
- 3. Lemon juice: A natural disinfectant with a refreshing citrus scent, lemon juice is excellent for cutting through grease and bacteria. It works wonders on surfaces like countertops and cutting boards, leaving behind a fresh, clean aroma.
- 4. Power Fresh multipurpose cleaner: Made with plant-based surfactants powerful enough to rid the fridge of grease, grime, germs, and odours. Perfect to keep your fridge, kitchen counters, and surfaces sparkling clean while being gentle on the environment.
- 5. Zilch Naturally Better sponges and scourers: Made from sustainably sourced coconut, these eco-friendly sponges and scourers are gentle on surfaces while being tough on dirt. They offer a natural alternative to traditional synthetic sponges, providing an environmentally conscious cleaning option that's durable and effective.
- 6. Oates r-Microlife cloths: Made with 100% post-consumer recycled polyester, this reusable cloth has a high pickup capacity that's effective against stubborn stains. With their superior absorbency and eco-friendly design, they're a great choice for tackling a variety of cleaning tasks, from spills to grime, without harming the planet.

The Cool Benefits of a Clean Fridge

Keeping your office fridge clean isn't just about avoiding the dreaded "what's that smell?" scenario. It comes with a whole host of benefits.

- 1. Prevents food spoilage: A clean, organised fridge helps food stay fresh longer. It's like giving your sandwiches a mini-holiday resort.
- 2. Eliminates odours: No more holding your breath every time you open the fridge door.
- 3. Promotes a healthier workplace: Reduces the risk of foodborne illnesses, because no one wants their performance review to include "caused office-wide food poisoning".
- 4. Increases efficiency: When everything is organised, you spend less time rummaging and more time enjoying your lunch break.
- 5. Boosts morale: A clean fridge shows that people care about shared spaces.

Plant-Based vs. Chemical Cleaners

Choosing the right cleaner for your workplace is about balancing effectiveness with health and environmental impact. Let's explore the trade-offs between chemical and plant-based cleaning products to help you make an informed decision.

1 Potency vs. Safety

Chemical cleaners are powerful allies in the battle against tough stains and grime. However, many contain volatile organic compounds (VOCs) that can trigger asthma and allergies, impacting indoor air quality. In contrast, plant-based cleaners are generally gentler on both surfaces and users, making them a safer choice for everyday cleaning in shared spaces.

2 Environmental Impact

For workplaces prioritising sustainability, plant-based cleaners are a compelling choice. These products are biodegradable, often made from renewable resources, and packaged in ecofriendly materials. Some plant-based surfactants may have a shorter shelf life than their chemical counterparts, which may result in more frequent replenishment.

Chemical cleaners, while effective, often have a higher environmental toll. Their production and disposal can contribute to water and soil pollution, and their packaging may not always be recyclable. For offices aiming to reduce their environmental footprint, balancing the use of chemical and plant-based products can be a practical approach.

3 Applications: Choosing the Right Product

When choosing cleaning products for your workplace, it's important to balance effectiveness with environmental impact. While some cleaners rely on strong chemical formulations, many modern, plant-based, and biodegradable cleaners offer industrial-strength cleaning power without harsh chemicals. These products tackle tough stains, disinfect high-touch surfaces, and manage spills while reducing environmental impact through sustainable ingredients and recyclable packaging. Solutions like the Power Fresh range deliver the same cleaning power and shelf life as traditional cleaners, without the threat to the environment.

4 Employee Wellbeing

Your choice of cleaning products reflects your commitment to employee health. Using plant-based cleaners can reduce the risk of respiratory issues and skin irritations, fostering a healthier workplace. This not only enhances air quality but can also lead to fewer sick days and improved productivity.

5 A Balanced Approach

The cleaning products you choose reflect your commitment to employee health and safety. Plant-based cleaners, with minimal chemicals, improve indoor air quality and promote a healthier workplace. Beyond employee wellbeing, these products also support sustainability efforts, using biodegradable ingredients and recyclable packaging to lower your organisation's environmental footprint. For areas requiring heavy-duty cleaning, chemical cleaners can be used when necessary. By balancing these options, you can create a clean, safe, and environmentally responsible workspace that meets your cleaning needs, health considerations, and sustainability goals. Understanding the strengths of each product helps create a healthier workplace for all.

Hand Towels vs Hand Dryers Safety, Sustainability, and the Workplace Debate

Hand drying is not just a finishing step. Germs transfer more easily from wet hands, so thorough drying is essential for effective hygiene.

Recently, this everyday choice has become part of a wider debate. Some large organisations have removed paper towels from bathrooms in favour of electric hand dryers, often citing sustainability and waste reduction goals. However, this shift has also raised questions about hygiene, safety, and whether environmental decisions may introduce unintended health trade-offs in high traffic environments.

In workplaces and public bathrooms, the two primary options are single-use paper hand towels and electric hand dryers. Both can support good hand hygiene, but each comes with different operations, environmental and safety considerations.

Paper Towels (Hygiene First)

Paper towels remove moisture quickly and add friction, which can help physically remove remaining bacteria from the skin. A 2010 study conducted by the University of Westminster found that paper towels removed up to 77 percent of bacteria remaining after washing. When paired with no-touch no touch dispensers, they also reduce contact points and help control usage.

The World Health Organisation recommends single-use paper towels as part of hand hygiene strategy in healthcare settings. For this reason, paper towels are often preferred in environments where hygiene is critical, such as healthcare, food preparation areas, schools, and high-traffic facilities.

From a sustainability perspective, paper towels do generate waste after use. However, their overall environmental impact varies significantly depending on fibre source and dispenser efficiency. Recycled-content towels reduce demand on virgin materials and lower manufacturing footprint, particularly when combined with controlled-dispensing systems that minimise overuse. For many organisations, responsibly sourced paper options form part of a broader sustainability strategy.

Electric Hand Dryers (Waste Reduction)

Electric hand dryers remove the need for ongoing paper purchasing, deliveries and bin emptying. Life cycle assessments have shown that high-speed dryers can have a lower environmental impact than paper towels in certain conditions, particularly where electricity is sourced from low-emission grids and dryers are energy efficient.

However, hygiene considerations remain part of the discussion. A 2018 study published in the Journal of Hospital Infection reported lower contamination levels with paper towels compared to jet air dryers in controlled comparisons. Research has also shown that some high-speed dryers can disperse droplets and aerosols into the surrounding air, which may increase environmental contamination in enclosed bathroom spaces.

Drying time and noise can also influence user behaviour. If drying takes longer, users may leave with damp hands, which can compromise hygiene outcomes.

Making the Right Choice for Your Workplace

The hand drying debate highlights an important workplace reality: sustainability decisions should not be made in isolation from health and wellbeing. For environments where safety and infection control are paramount, paper towels remain a reliable and widely accepted solution. Where waste reduction is the primary driver, efficient dryers may support environmental targets, provided hygiene risks are carefully considered.

Ultimately, the right choice depends on your workplace priorities, risk profile and sustainability objectives.

Eco-Friendly Hygiene Supplies for a Sustainable Workplace

Did you know that the average office worker generates about 2kgs of waste each day?

Multiply that by the number of employees in your workplace, and the environmental impact quickly adds up. From discarded paper towels to single-use plastics, offices are often unintentional hubs of waste, but they don't have to be.

Building a greener workplace doesn't have to be overly complex, starting with small, thoughtful changes can have a big impact.

Opting for eco-friendly cleaning and hygiene supplies is a simple way to make your workplace more sustainable. By going for green products, you can create a healthier workplace environment and do your bit to help the planet in the long run.

And it's not just about saving the planet. According to the Design of the Workplace Report, employees in environmentally friendly workplaces are happier and more engaged, with 93% saying they feel better working in such settings compared to just 55% in less sustainable environments. Even productivity gets a boost, with 40% of employees feeling more productive in eco-conscious workplace, compared to only 12% in traditional ones.

Let's explore how your workplace can lead the way with eco-friendly hygiene products that make a big difference.

Essential Eco-Friendly Hygiene Products

Choosing to go green has never been easier. Here are simple but impactful swaps to make your workplace more sustainable.

1. Recycled Paper Towels and Tissues

Switching to recycled paper towels and tissues, like COS hand towels made from 100% recycled material, reduces waste and conserves resources. Choose products certified by trusted organisations like the Forest Stewardship Council (FSC) to ensure sustainable sourcing and responsible forest management.

2. Biodegradable Cleaning Supplies

Traditional cleaning products often contain harsh chemicals that can harm the environment when they enter waterways. Biodegradable alternatives, made from natural ingredients, break down safely and leave no harmful residues.

Green cleaning supplies like disinfectants, glass and window cleaners, and dishwashing formulas clean effectively without harming the planet.

These eco-friendly options clean surfaces and floors, with concentrated formulas that reduce packaging waste and environmental impact.

3. Compostable Bin Liners

Standard plastic bin liners are a major contributor to landfill waste. Switch to compostable bin liners made from plant-based materials like cornstarch to reduce landfill waste and your workplace plastic footprint.

4. Refillable Soap and Sanitiser Stations

Single-use plastic dispensers are a thing of the past. Choose refillable soap and sanitiser stations instead. Pair these with bulk refill containers to reduce packaging waste.

Choose soap products and hand sanitisers made from natural, biodegradable ingredients for a cleaner, greener choice.

5. Reusable Cleaning Cloths and Microfibre Towels

If your workplace environment allows it, you might want to consider ditching single-use wipes and paper towels in favour of reusable cleaning cloths or microfibre towels.

Microfibre towels are particularly effective for cleaning surfaces with minimal or no cleaning products, thanks to their unique texture. These durable alternatives can be washed and reused multiple times, helping to reduce waste.

If choosing reusable towels and cleaning cloths is not applicable to your workplace, you can always choose planet-friendly hand towels.

6. Organic Period Supplies and Sustainable Personal Care Items

Stocking sustainable personal care products in your shared bathrooms is another thoughtful way to go green. Include period supplies, such as those from Femmé Organic, which use biodegradable materials and avoid harmful chemicals.

Also consider stocking up on plant-based liquid hand soaps and other restroom essentials that you need in your workplace.

Sustainable Practices in your Workplace

Educate Employees

Keep employees informed about the your sustainability initiatives and the role they play in reducing environmental impact. For example, when introducing centralised waste bins, you can explain how these streamline recycling and reduce contamination. Explain the benefits clearly to promote understanding and build support for such initiatives.

Use creative approaches like:

- Sharing updates via engaging emails, flyers, and posters,
- Using visuals like infographics for clarity, and
- Providing regular progress updates to encourage ongoing participation

Set Up Proper Waste Disposal Systems

A good waste disposal system is key to sustainability. Invest in centralised, clearly labelled recycling and composting bins for easy sorting. Tools like the Method Recycling, Source Separation System or SULO bins can simplify the process. Use colour-coded labels and visuals to boost compliance and reduce contamination.

Reward Green Behaviour

Recognise employees or teams that actively adopt sustainable habits, such as using reusable mugs or conserving water in the office kitchen.

Small Changes, Big Impact

Switching to sustainable hygiene products may come with a higher upfront cost, but the long-term benefits far outweigh the investment. Eco-friendly options reduce exposure to harsh chemicals, creating a safer, healthier workspace while also cutting down on waste and environmental impact. These choices can also enhance your business reputation, attracting eco-conscious clients and partners.

While one workplace's efforts may seem small, collective action drives meaningful change. By opting for biodegradable, ethically sourced, and recyclable products, your business aligns with sustainability goals and evolving environmental standards. Make the switch today to lead in responsible business practices and prove that small changes can make a big impact.

Certifications

As the number of certifications in the market increase it can get confusing. Use this reference guide to decide which certification best meets your business needs.

AFRDI

Provides standards, testing, product certification and research for buyers and sellers of furniture. AFRDI certified products show what level of AFRDI approval was achieved in three key areas: Toughness, Durability and Safety.

Australian Certified Organic

Australia's largest certifier for biodynamic and organic produce, ACO provides certification to suppliers from all sectors. If a product sports the ACO logo, it is compliant with national production standards, and that product can be traced all the way back to its origin.

B Corp

B Corp certification recognises companies that meet high standards of social responsibility and environmental sustainability. B Corps prioritise creating a positive impact on employees, communities, and the environment, fostering a more sustainable and equitable global economy.

Carbon Reduction Institute (CRI)

The Carbon Reduction Institute encourages businesses to lower their carbon emissions. Their carbon neutral certification guarantees that the company in question has minimised and offset the carbon emissions involved in the production and distribution of the product.

CO2 Neutral

CO2 neutral products are made possible by calculating the CO2 emissions produced in the products life cycle.

Energy Star

ENERGY STAR reduces the amount of energy consumed by a product by either automatically switching it into a 'sleep' mode when it's not being used and/or reducing the amount of power used when in 'standby' mode. ENERGY STAR helps save money on electricity bills and the environment by reducing greenhouse gas emissions.

EU Ecolabel

The EU Ecolabel helps encourage businesses to market and customers to choose sustainable, eco-conscious, high quality products. The aim of the EU Ecolabel is to minimise the environmental impact of products from production through to consumption.

Fairtrade

Fairtrade represents better prices, decent working conditions, local sustainability, and fair terms of trade for farmers and workers in the developing world. Fairtrade unique product offering allows you to support Fairtrade products which provides hope for tomorrow.

Forest Stewardship Council (FSC)

An international network which accredits independent 3rd party organisations who can certify forest managers and forest product producers to FSC Standards. FSC partnership among businesses, the public sector and civil society provides a unique tool for dealing with the issues surrounding forestry. FSC promotes environmentally appropriate, socially beneficial, and economically viable management of the world's forests.

Good Environmental Choice Australia (GECA)

GECA is Australia's leading independent, not-for-profit ecolabelling program, certifying products and services that meet strict environmental, health, and ethical standards in accordance with international best practices (ISO 14024). GECA supports consumers, businesses, and governments in making informed choices by identifying truly sustainable options across diverse sectors and sets clear benchmarks for environmental performance by evaluating the primary environmental impacts of a product throughout its entire lifecycle.

Programme for Endorsement of Forest Certification (PEFC)

PEFC certification supports the sustainable management of forests by setting rigorous ecological, social and ethical standards across the entire forest supply chain. Products carrying the PEFC label come from responsibly managed forests and verified, sustainable sources, helping buyers make informed choices that protect forest ecosystems.

Rainforest Alliance

An independent seal of approval which ensures that goods and services were produced in compliance with strict guidelines protecting the environment, wildlife, workers and local communities. Rainforest Alliance links businesses to conscientious consumers who identify their goods and services through the Rainforest Alliance Certification.

Supply Nation

Supply Nation connects First Nations businesses with corporate and government buyers in Australia, creating opportunities for First Nations businesses to compete for business. Supply Nation creates these opportunities by providing an essential link between purchasers and sellers.
